Alzheimer's Advocacy Forum in DC March 27-29. Meet with Congressmen and Senators to advocate on behalf of the Alzheimer's Association. 1,300 advocates attended this year

Alzheimer's will cost $259 Billion this year

Medicare is spending 1 in 5 dollars on Alzheimer's patients

Medicaid spends 23 times more on seniors with Alzheimer's than seniors without the disease

In 2016, the U.S. only spent $100 on research for every $16,000 spent on care

The two asks this year are:

- 1) $414 million increase in research funding. Goal is to have Alzheimer's cured by 2025.
- 2) PCHETA: Palliative Care and Hospice Education and Training Act. 44% of nursing homes do not offer palliative care. Without this care, patients are more likely to be hospitalized and/or die. This bill will help provide funding for proper palliative care and hospice care.

Last years ask was for a $400 million increase in research funding, this was officially voted into the budget in 2017. Due to this the annual funding to NIH for Alzheimer's research is $1.4 billion. The NIH says that we need to spend $2 billion per year in order to have a major breakthrough by 2025.

Memory Day: Kelly attended Memory Day this year to meet with State legislators regarding state policy and funding. This year, Ohio was tasked with cutting $1 billion from the state budget.
